Under command of Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, the United States fleet will leave the San Pedro-San Diego bases on Feb. 7, returning March 20.

OFF THE RECORD. While Princess Juliana of Holland was posing for the court photographer, her husband, Prince Bernhard, sneaked this candid camera study of the attractive heiress to the throne in the land of windmills and dykes.

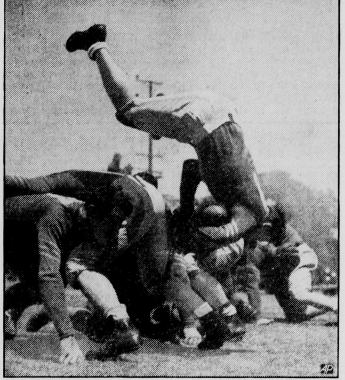

SHE ALSO SINGS.
Phyllis Randall, 21. Hollywood singer and dancer, was chosen "Miss California," a d will compete in the Atlantic City "Miss America" contest.

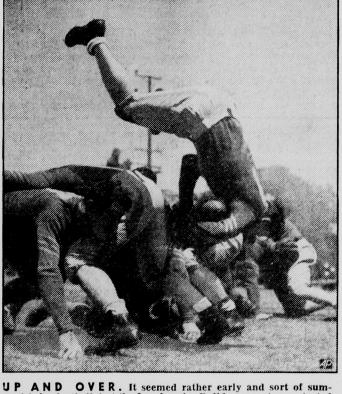

MAKE WAY FOR THE KING. Swarthy sons of the desert, guardians of the Nile, holding standards of Egypt aloft, formed a picturesque cavalcade as they rode in review past young King Farouk after his investiture. Theirs is the task of protecting the rich valley of the pharaohs from invasion by any foreign power as Britain relaxed her protectorate over the ancient nation.

USING HORSE SENSE. John H. Whitney, like others of his family, finds racing serious business. He was concentrating at Saratoga.

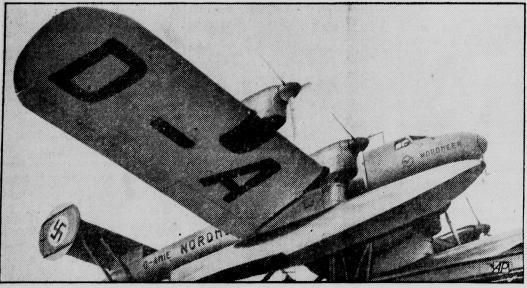

UPAND OVER. It seemed rather early and sort of summerish for football, but the Los Angeles Bulldogs, pro team, started out on practice sessions to prepare for an early opening season. Here Orv Mathews, former USC star, is giving the line a once over.

PMARAOH ON A PONY. Following his investiture as ruler of Egypt, 18-year-old King Farouk, first real monarch of the land of the pharaohs since Cleopatra, sat astride his charger to take the salute at the impressive review of his military forces.

GERMANY'S ATLANTIC LINER. Here is the German flying boat Nordmeer which was scheduled to enter the race to establish trans-Atlantic air service with eight survey flights to New York. The 17-ton flying boat, powered by four giant diesel motors, is launched from a catapult ship. A twin seaplane, the Nordwind, also will participate in the test trips across the sea.

POLITICS IS HOT. Midsummer political activity hit a new peak this year in both parties. The Illinois farm of Frank O. Lowden (left) was reported in Washington to be the scene of a planned Republican pow-wow, which would include both Alf Lan-don (right) and former President Hoover.

BACK IN SPOTLIGHT. Into political limelight stepped Herbert Hoover with the suggestion that the G.O.P. "take stock of party position" prior to the 1938 elections through a convention. Chairman John Hamilton, shown with the former President, would make no comment on the plan.

PACKERS TO PAY FOR INSPECTOR

Claim Expense Boosts Meat I Cent a Pound

Meat packers in Orange county henceforth will have to pay for their own state inspection service, at a cost of approximately $225 a month. The county formally unshouldered the responsibility of packinghouse inspection yesterday aft-ernoon, following pleas from two firms to continue supplying county inspectors so packers might compete with those plants getting free inspection elsewhere. Local governments pay for inspection of only 26 plants in the state, while 148 plants have state inspection and are required to meet the cost. Among processing plants, 165 are paid by local government, and 48 by the plants themselves. Yesterday afternoon's action followed appearance at the morn-ing session of former Congress-man Sam Collins, representing the South Coast Meat company and Clarence Sprague, attorney for the Alpha Beta packinghouse in-trests at Huntington Beach, who protested abandonment of the county-inspection plan. said the change over might force some packers out of business by adding 1 cent per pound to the price of meat.

WILL ISSUE $2,500,000 IN BONDS

Notify U. S. Project Is Now Ready 'to Go'

Technicalities were ironed out on three fronts today, as Orange county's $15,000,000 flood control program came nearer the actual construction stage.

Plans for moving 6.21 miles of Santa Fe railroad line at the Prado damsite were in, and supervisors had launched an ordinance providing for issuance of $2,500,000 in bonds, and adopted a resolution assuring Uncle Sam that everything is ready to go.

The ordinance probably will be passed next week. Moving the 6.21 miles of railroad track will cost the district $696,-591.48, according to an estimate presented to the board yesterday by the railroad's engineering department. Total cost will be $926,623.18, it was estimated, but the railroad will meet some of that cost because of improved curves and a shorter distance on the new right-

An ordinance adopted yesterday afternoon provides for issuance of the bonds, voted last month by a 10-1 margin, when the money is needed. Interest rates will be de-termined at the time of sale, Attorneys Albert Launer and B. Z.

McKinney told the board. Last night, at a special session called to give immediate assurance to the government that Orange county is ready for federal funds, a resolution was adopted to that effect. County Clerk Joe Backs was instructed to certify the reso-lution and send it to Washington,

Uriah Rosses Have Many Callers at Old Ranch Home

Celebrating 51 years of married life today in the same house and on the same property which was theirs as bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Ross, prominent pioneers of Orange county, were called upon by many old friends, neighbors, and relatives. Their celebration this year was an informal one because of illness in the family, but was nevertheless marked by many happy occur-rences during the day. The Ross home is located on the old Josiah Ross property in the North Flower street district, the North Flower street district, and nearby live three sisters of Uriah Ross, Miss Orma Ross, Mrs. Lizzie Foote, and Mrs. Ethel Wilson. They and another sister, Mrs. Olive Selvidge, who makes her home in South Santa Ana, were prominent among the visitors. were prominent among the visitors of the day.

Others taking an active part in the quiet celebration were the four sons of the Rosses, Raymond, Mel-vin, and Carol, with their wives and children, and Ernest Ross of the home. Education Interest Of Local Woman

BY DR. MARY E. WRIGHT Education has been the out-standing interest of Mrs. Laura Park's life, for even today she has a modernized apartment in the first schoolhouse in Santa Ana after being graduated from Santa Ana high school at the age of 60. Fate took a hand each time Mrs. Parks attempted to complete her education, until she began studying in the classes of adult educa-tion here. She received her graduation diploma with credits to spare in 1936.

Laura Richardson Parks was born in Greenville, Mich., but lost her parents when she was 12 years of age. She made her home an aunt and uncle after that time and until she was in high school, when ill health forced her to drop her school work.

At the age of 20, she began the study of the piano with a teacher who had studied with the best masters in Germany. Not satis-fied with just piano work, she began the pipe organ and became so proficient that she was organist in her home church for 12 years. During the time she played the organ, Dr. Carl Patton, now a professor at the University of California preceded there.

She specialized in concert ac companying on the piano and did much of that for Constance Balfour, a native of Greenville, who is now a noted soloist in Southern California. Mrs. Parks has played for several of the vocalist's private concerts in California.

Her unceasing ambition led her to enter the State Normal school at Ypsilanti, Mich., where she was graduated in music, and she taught music in the schools there for three years. She was forced to give up her career upon the death of her aunt, to care for anther invalid in the family.

Moving to California in 1921, she was married in 1924. Four years later she was alone and earning her own living again. At that time she became a mother's "stand-by" in caring for the young children of mothers interested in church or club work

She loved the little folk and has seen Patty Rapp, Virginia Curry Hubert Nall, jr., and Frances Nall grow up and enter universities; children she has watched during their early formative years are the E. T. McFadden children and those of the R. A. Tiernans.

Since that time she bought a typewriter and learned to operate it, making great use of it during her classes in adult education. She

Combinations Of Fruit Will Tempt

By JUDITH WILSON

Call them blue plates, club plates or whatever you wish. The finest ones are made with fruit— either a combination of fruits or fruits with grilled meat or vegeta-ble combinations. The fruit combinations were started by a chef in one of the smart men's clubs who figured that if one fruit was good, three or four would be better. They are ideal for the main course of a hot weather meal.

For your whole meal on a plate of fruit, be sure to include substantial bananas and a few dates, either plain or stuffed, to give contrast to the soft fruits and berries you use for the plate. Melon balls are good, fresh pineapple, berries in season, segments of grapefruit, slices of orange and bunches of cherries or grapes—these are the things out of which attractive club plates are made.

For effect and fun, add slivers of cheese, a few salted nuts or some tiny sandwiches spread with savory butter and with paper-thin slices of chicken breast. Coconut makes an attractive garnish. You should also pass two little dishes of dressing-a French dressing for those who like sharp flavors and a dish of cream mayonnaise for those who do not worry too much about their calories. Vegetables make attractive club plates, too. You can have them sizzling hot with a baked or sauted banana and crisp curls of bacon to add substance for those who otherwise would not consider vegetables a meal. Some women like a cold vegetable plate with a combination of cold, cooked vege-tables and fresh ones—ripe tomato slices, big radishes right out of the garden, cucumbers cut long, thin sticks, shredded raw carrots or coleslaw. The cooked vegetables should be marinated in well-seasoned French dressing and each variety should be kept apart in its own cup of crisp lettuce.

President Jackson in launched an attack on the Bank of the U. S. as he considered it a detriment to state banks.

Lola Larkin, English star in a Broadway revue, is urged by Winfield Balcom to marry him.

His father, Senator Balcom, retains a clever woman lawyer, Martha Carter, to prevent this seeming mesalliance. Norman Standish, Englishman, comes from abroad with his bride, Cora, and meets Lola in secret.

When Cora learns of this she goes to her closest friend, the same Martha Carter, and re-tains her to bribe Lola to let Standish alone. Martha tries, and Lola tells her nothing can change the situation that exists between her and Standish. In desperation, Cora gets her husband to go to Hollywood with her to visit a sister, in reality to get him away from Lola. Martha

The Money Goes to the Old Folks

Those disgruntled taxpayers who have been shouting their peeve at the coming increase in expenses of the county welfare department can get an additional idea of the reason for the boost from Director Jack Snow's report to the board of supervisors.

The case load has jumped more than 10 per cent in a month, he reports, hopping from a June total of 2600 to a figure of 2922 for July.

Practically the whole increase, explains Snow, is due to the old age security applications taken under investi-

These old age security applications are the result of the activities of the recent California state legislature, generally referred to as a Sacramento session that accomplished more in the way of talk and bluster and less in the way of intelligent action on the state's problems than any other in years.

We do not feel disposed, however, to place the old age benefit legislation in the same class as the great run of pork barrel and plum pudding bills that got through thanks to the persuasion of the lobbyists and the ignorance of many of our representatives.

Instead, we view it as an attempt to establish an enlightened piece of humane protection for those old folks who carried the burdens of life while the present generation was crawling around on the nursery floor and drinking from baby bottles instead of cocktail glasses.

No doubt, like most other new bills, it has its flaws. There is lots of room for argument in many provisions of the bill and we are not disposed to claim it is perfect in construction or application.

But the principle behind the old age pensions law is a fine one.

It embodies the generosity and humanity which bring happiness and encouragement to those who see so much of the injustices of the world.

It is recognition in a broad and general sense of that Biblical injunction—"Honor thy father and mother."

It shows that in spite of the savage impulses which cause calamities like the Chinese or Spanish war or the slaying of the Inglewood babes, the human race has a conscience and is slowly beating its way from a state of social savagery into a better order of things where the unfortunate and oppressed are given a helping hand from the state itself.

So when we plunk our tax dollar on the barrelhead for the heavy jolt that is being abstracted this coming fiscal year, we are going to keep a stiff upper lip, refrain from grousing and think of the old folks, the blind man and the homeless children who will benefit from California's new security laws.

The office philanthropist says it is nice of Gypsy Rose Lee to take time from her honeymoon and come here to get married. The local marrying parsons can

Politics a la McAdoo

What we mean by "politics"—the word with the quotation marks on it as distinguished from the use of the word in its truer, more respectable sense—is illustrated by the recent ousting of Pierson M. Hall from his job as United States district attorney for Southern California.

Hall was instructed by Senator McAdoo to "get along" with McAdoo's law partner, Col. Neblett. Evidently Hall didn't "get along." What do you suppose was meant by "get along?" Neblett is an attorney. Is there anything a United States district attorney might do, in the course of his work, for a practicing attorney? You make the conclusion.

Anyway, Hall evidently did no more than just tend to his job, without trying to "get along" with Col. Neblett any more than he would with any other citizen. He held his job many years. Now—he is out.

There are no official charges against him, no complaint of his work as an official of the United States government, no reflections on his character and general fitness for the job he held. He filled all the normal qualifications. But that wasn't enough. He would not, judging from developments, play the "political" game. So out he goes. No wonder his aged mother died of a broken heart soon after Hall was ousted. She came of a generation which was taught that plain merit was all that was necessary to hold one's job and to advance one's career.

Pierson M. Hall ran into "politics." There have been many demonstrations of "politics" recently. But this is example No. A-1. It is no wonder the public so heartily detests "politicians," and warms so eagerly to men in pubic office who are real statesmen.

Another sign of Santa Ana's growth is the addition of two buses to local transit service, proving that the people as well as the town are going places.

'Iron Lung' in Riverside County

Last week we broadcast an appeal in this column for some hospital or doctor to buy an adult-sized "iron lung" to have on hand in case some unfortunate person developed respiratory paralysis.

The appeal followed the miraculous saving of Baby Jerry Fitschen at St. Joseph's hospital through the lucky accident of obtaining an infant-sized "lung" at San Fran-

A good friend telephones us that a big "lung" is now available at the orlington Sanitarium in Riverside county.

It is of the Driver respirator type.

This information we pass on for whatever value it might have in case of an emergency; and also as a hint to the board of supervisors to get one for the county hospital. They cost about $750.

Two more citrus groves change hands, the price averaging about $3000 an acre. Who said that an orange grove was a frozen asset?

What Can Be

Happening on

'Q" Street?

By

Pegler NEW YORK .- From the writings of Hugh Johnson and certain written and verbal, regarding the unelected powers in Washington, I receive an impression of mischievous imprudence, or something a little more so, which I am unable to define in certain of Mr. Roosevelt's selfish advisors. There is a suggestion of plotting of political imps with no responsibility, tinkering with the form of government to the peril of our liberties and by vague but persistent mention of a house in Q street. I am given to wonder what goes on, anyway.

It may be remembered that there was a mysterious house on K street which figured in the disclosures of monkey business in the Harding administration and that the reporters who were on the job in those days either didn't know about this nest or were too conservative to write what they

When, finally, the story did come out, Harding was dead and the damage was all done so the country got nothing but a scandal whereas a little old-fashioned, citywide reporting of the type which distinguished the old World and the St. Louis Star-Times and Post Dispatch might have broken the story a couple of years earlier.

QUEER THINGS

I suppose I show a lot of nerve suggesting that some one else should do the spade work on this job but I am no good at this kind of reporting and anyway, I hardly know my way around town. I don't even know what the "Q" stands for, but it could mean Queer

Maybe there is no such story as Maybe there is no such story as I imagine but so much hinting and inking as we see in the papers these days indicates that some people know more than they are willing to take the risk of telling to take the risk of telling without the backing of a congreswithout the backing of a congresswithout the backing of a congresswith the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of the county planning commission for his part in securing the backing of sional inquiry. And, remembering how very delicately an administration committe handled the income tax matters of the Roosevelt family after they had boldly belted around a lot of other citizens on Mr. Roosevelt's general accusation of unethical and immoral conduct, there seems to be no liklihood of an honest investigation.
